Happy Friday to you all!

It is now time to get creative - Today we would like you to design a front cover and write a 'blurb' for either Friend or Foe or a story of your choice. (The blurb is a short description of the story which aims to encourage people to read it. It is usually found on the back cover of the book.)

See below for some examples of 'real' front covers that have been used for Friend or Foe and an example of a blurb. Then fold a sheet of blank paper in half and get designing! You can use ordinary pencil (black and white can be very effective) or coloured pencils, crayons, felt tips and even paint if you wish.

Ask a grown up to e-mail us your completed designs and we will make a class gallery.
