

English Activity- 24.3.20

LO - I can infer a character's feelings and emotions by finding clues in a text.

Listen again to chapter 1 of Friend or Foe by Michael Morpurgo on the following link:

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/teach/school-radio/english-ks2-friend-or-foe-episode-1-leaving-london/zk23nrd>

As you listen, focus on the main character David and how he must be feeling – in your book, draw three columns and jot down clues that reveal that he is sad, clues that reveal he is scared and clues that reveal he is being brave.

Imagine that you are David and write a diary entry of your day, focussing on showing these emotions. Remember to give clues about your feelings (eg. My hands were trembling) rather than telling the reader directly (eg. I was scared.)
