

Thursday 7th May

I can write a journey quest myth.

Your task: Use your plan, to write your own journey quest myth.

Use the success criteria to help you.

Description Character Setting (similes, adjectives)	ABCDEFGHIJKLM- NOPQRSTUVWXYZ ! ? . comma , Inverted commas " "	Fronted adverbials On _____ Around _____ In _____	Paragraphs Opening Build up Problem Resolution ending
Co-ordinating Conjunctions and, but, so, because, while, when	Speech "Help!"  Synonyms for 'said' Yelled screeched	Adverbs then next, soon  Prepositions before, after, during, in	Subordinate clause conjunctions If since as, although, while, after, before, until, because,

Start by describing the characters, introducing where, who and what the quest is

There is an example opening to a the Medusa quest story below to give you ideas and get you started.

A long time a go, on a small Island in Greece, there was a beautiful Princess called Danae and her brave son Perseus. Danae was as beautiful as a butterfly and as kind as a nurse. Perseus was as strong as a wrestler and as brave as a scientist. They were very happy on their little island. Unfortunately, the king of island fell in love with Danae and decided he wanted her to marry him, but she refused so he locked her away and challenged Perseus to a quest to find and kill the gorgon Medusa. Medusa was a fierce creature with a head of hissing snakes and a gaze as hard as concrete which could turn people to stone. Perseus was scared but until he returned his mother would be kept locked in a prison so he knew he had to succeed.